Marshall Challenges UN To Break World Crisis

LISTS 7 POINTS WHERE ACTION CAN BE TAKEN

Reverses U. S. Stand on Veto; Accuses Balkan Reds of Causing Greek Woe.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Secretary of State George C. Marshall challenged the United Nations today to make a "supreme effort" to break the world's "deepening political and economic crisis" and save Greece from the "attacks" of its Balkan Communist neighbors.

Marshall accused Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria of "hostile and aggressive" acts against Greece, told how three Russian vetoes had blocked security council action to protect the country, and told the 55-nation UN assembly:

"This assembly cannot stand by as a mere spectator while a member of the United Nations is endangered by attacks from abroad. If the United Nations should fail to protect the integrity of one small state, the security of all small states would be placed in jeopardy."

Marshall outlined a seven-point action program, reversing American policy on the veto issue and demanding that the assembly set up its own full-time security committee to backstop the veto-ridden security council.

Favors Veto Liberalization

He announced that the United States now favored drastic "liberalization" of the veto by eliminating it entirely from all security council decisions on Pacific settlements of international disputes. The veto could then be used only on issues involving forceful action against aggressors.

He also called for immediate creation by the assembly of a Greek border commission—which Russia had vetoed in the security council; threw the Russian-American deadlock on Korea into the assembly; asked an assembly solution for Palestine; demanded that Russia come to terms on atomic energy control; and called for vigorous planning of arms regulation.

Marshall's address evidently marked the opening of an American diplomatic offensive against Russia in the United Nations and stressed the new American policy that when Russia hamstrings the security council with veto votes the general assembly must take over.

For that purpose he would have the assembly's proposed security committee in constant session, and would give it a membership of 55 members like the assembly itself.

Marshall's Program

Here is the seven point program Marshall laid down:

1. Greece—The United States will submit to the assembly a resolution squarely blaming Yugoslavia, Albania and Bulgaria for Greece's border troubles, calling on them to stop supporting Greek Communist guerrillas and creating a special commission to watch over the explosive Balkan situation.

2. Palestine—The United States gives "serious weight" to the proposals of a United Nations commission for partitioning the Holy Land between Jews and Arabs.

3. Korea—After two years of futile negotiations with Russia on Korean independence the United States has given up hope of finding a solution that way. It will submit suggestions for restoring Korean independence but looks to the "impartial judgment" of the assembly for a solution.

4. Atomic Energy—Two members of the atomic energy commission—Marshall did not specifically name Russia and Poland—have blocked agreement in the commission on control machinery. Unless the "minority" agrees, soon, Marshall said the commission may be confronted with complete failure.

5. Arms Regulation—A "workable system" of arms control is impossible until "conditions of international confidence prevail" in the world, but America wants the UN arms commission to "proceed seriously" with its task of plan-

Government Asked To Weigh Foreign Aid Against U. S. Prices

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—New demands arose on Capitol Hill today for the administration to weigh its foreign aid program against soaring prices at home.

But even as many lawmakers were voicing doubt that a special session of congress should be convened to consider emergency help abroad, the state department heard its third urgent plea from Italy that the fate of that country hangs on additional American assistance.

Senator Lodge (R-Mass), recently returned from a six-week tour of Europe, summed up what appeared to be a growing sentiment among congress members that prices at home and demands for help abroad are "two halves of the same apple."

Senator Byrd (D-Va), although he did not touch directly on the issue of domestic prices, cautioned against any appeal for action based on "the hysteria of an emotional atmosphere."

Sees 2 Requirements

Byrd said the American people "are entitled to a completely frank and accurate appraisal of the foreign situation," and that before "new billions" were appropriated the people and their representatives in congress should have:

▶A full account of what has been done and the results.

▶A bill of particulars of what the administration plans to accomplish in the expenditure of additional funds to be requested under the Marshall plan for European recovery.

Joining Lodge in linking domestic prices directly with the issue of foreign help were Senators Bricker (R-Ohio), McGrath (D-RI) and Lucas (D-Ill).

All four also called for submission to congressional committees of all facts concerning a new assistance program before there is any call for a special session.

Italians Issue Plea

Italian Ambassador Alberto Tarchiani underscored Secretary of State Marshall's earlier declaration that Europe would have to have help before next year with his third call in 10 days yesterday on Under-Secretary of State Lovett.

Afterwards Tarchiani told reporters that Italy needed more American dollars, wheat and coal and must have them this year "to assure the life of Italy as a European nation."

Bricker opposed a special session until the administration provided "definite information for both the people and the congress upon what is planned."

"Then, Bricker added, "there must be some time to do some thinking and let the country have a chance to shape its opinion."

Bricker agreed with Senator Brewster (R-Me) that food exports should be trimmed to ease pressure on food prices at home.

STASSEN ASKS FOR FOOD CUT

Says Voluntary Rationing Is Necessary; Backs Marshall Plan to Limit.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — Harold E. Stassen today declared America "should begin at once a nationwide, coordinated, voluntary food conservation program" and at the same time he called for a special session of congress to enact the Marshall plan.

The former Minnesota governor, only avowed 1948 Republican presidential candidate, said in an address prepared for a state Chamber of Commerce luncheon "the shortage of food around the world for this next winter requires immediate action."

Unless we conserve food, he added, "the pressure of demand on a dwindling food supply next winter will drive our high prices even higher and increase the danger of boom and bust in the American economy."

Stassen asserted that only the President and the government could provide "effective national leadership" for the conservation program.

Favors Marshall Plan

As to the Marshall plan, the former naval captain said "my urgent message today is that speed is necessary in its implementation."

"The President," he declared, "should promptly advise the country of the clear fact that Europe can not move into this next winter without a definite program from this country. * * *"

Stassen said the Marshall plan

EX-MAYOR F. H. LA GUARDIA OF N. Y. REPORTED SINKING

Public Figure Collapses Into "Deep Stupor"; Ill Several Weeks.

By The United Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Fiorello H. LaGuardia, 64, former mayor of New York City and one of the nation's best known public figures, was in critical condition at his home today.

His physician, Dr. George Baehr, said LaGuardia collapsed at his home last night and had "sunk into a deep stupor."

LaGuardia, an ex-congressman and former head of UNRRA, has been failing for several weeks, Dr. Baehr said, ever since he underwent an operation for a pancreatic condition several months ago and never fully recovered.

Dr. Baehr said LaGuardia "has lost a great deal of weight and strength," but had continued to work at writing for several hours each day.

Ohio Solon Sees Need For Strike by Buyers

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—Rep. Bender (R-Ohio) said today a buyers' strike might be necessary to bring down prices.

Remarking on 90-cent butter and high costs of other things, the Ohio lawmaker declared in a statement:

"It is time for the buyer to do something more than beware.

"It may be necessary for the housewives of America to take the issue into their capable hands once more with an old-fashioned buyers' strike."

Despite Protests, Little Relief Seen From High Prices

By The Associated Press

Protests against the nation's high cost of living, with housewives making the loudest complaints because of the continued upward trend in food prices, grew today but there appeared little hope for immediate price declines.

As top government officials in Washington prepared information on the food price situation for President Truman's study upon his arrival home this weekend from his South American trip, costs of some food items in several cities made new advances.

In three of the country's major cities — New York, Chicago and Washington — officials planned or studied proposals to inaugurate meatless days in an attempt to curb the skyrocketing prices.

In the nation's capital the District of Columbia commissioners urged the residents to observe voluntarily two meatless days a week. There were similar plans proposed in New York, affecting hotels and restaurants.

In St. Louis, Mayor Aloys P. Kaufmann said he would ask the U. S. attorney general to investigate high food prices.

The nation's housewives were in

REDS THREATEN TO STEP UP ITALIAN STRIKE

"Warn" Government Walkouts May Be Extended Throughout Nation.

By The United Press

ROME, Sept. 17 — The Communists and leftwing Socialists threatened today to extend a strike of 1,300,000 farm workers in the north throughout Italy and warned the beleaguered government for the fifth time that the crisis they had provoked might have to be solved by force.

Premier Alcide de Gasperi, who put the Communists and Socialists out of his government three-and-a-half months ago, ignored the agitation publicly, although he had taken stock of the forces available for maintaining public order.

Government sources said the cabinet was "calm and optimistic" because it believed the real issue was Saturday's scheduled nationwide protest against the government that the leftists had organized. The "day of protest" was a prelude to Tuesday's parliamentary debate on a motion of no confidence in the mildly rightist government.

Want Government Role

The intent of the Communists and the leftwing Socialists, who are keeping close company, and who can call a strike at their pleasure through the General Confederation of Labor, was to force their way back into the cabinet or overthrow it for a leftist government.

Leftwing Socialist Leader Pietro Nenni, who alternates with Communist Leader Palmire Togliatti in "warning" the government, charged today that farm owners were "sabotaging every effort at conciliation." He gave another warning of force in his party newspaper.

Premier de Gasperi, in the worst straits since he put the Communists out of the government three-and-a-half months ago, met last night with Minister of Interior Mario Scelba. They talked about the internal situation and about the men and arms available for quelling trouble.

While they would not say what had been decided at the meeting, ministry of interior officials disclosed significantly that the government had the following "non military" forces at its disposal:

Carabinieri — 60,000 trained men, equipped with submachine-guns, pistols, light and heavy machine guns, light artillery, 300 British-made armored cars and 700 trucks.

Police — 50,000 men, but not trained as well as the carabinieri and equipped only with small arms in addition to 10 light tanks and 20 armored cars.

2,000,000 on Strike

More than 2,000,000 men—farm and metal workers — were on strike and Communist leaders of the General Confederation of Labor said these walkouts were "only the beginnings of the struggle." On Saturday, the Communists have scheduled national "day of protests" against the government.

The Communists vehemently denied they had called the strikes to force De Gasperi to take leftists back into his government or that they were plotting a revolution. But Giuseppe de Vittoria, Com-

LABOR PICKETS SPUR TAFT ON

Jeering Unionists May Project Senator Into '48 Race, Observers Believe.

By The Associated Press

EN ROUTE TO SAN DIEGO WITH TAFT, Sept. 17—Senator Taft (R-Ohio) traveled south today for an aerial look at the Colorado river basin, leaving behind in Los Angeles the impression that jeering union picketers may go far toward projecting him actively into the race for the 1948 Republican presidential nomination.

Introduced before a Republican gathering as possibly "the best qualified man in the United States for president," Taft indicated that he thought CIO and AFL pickets who booed his entrance into the hall might have lifted his political prospects.

Taft told an audience of Los Angeles Republican organization members that a picket line had given him "perhap the noisiest session I have had." Police Inspector Anthony Collins estimated the picket line was composed of 300 union members.

Pleased at Crowd

"It is pleasant," Taft said "to find so many people here in the hall and out in the street who are interested in forwarding the interests of the Republican party."

Six paper-masked picketers, one of whom bore a sign reading "Don't Call Me Taft, My Name Is Adolf," were arrested and booked on misdemeanor charges of masquerading, with bail set at $500 each. The masks represented both Taft and Hitler.

Taft indicated by an attack on President Truman's policies that the 1948 presidential race—rather than the congressional contest—was uppermost in his mind at this time.

Calls Truman Prisoner

Taft called Mr. Truman a "prisoner of the extreme radical wing" of the Democratic party.

Although he has declined to talk intra-party politics, the Ohioan assumed responsibility for defining as the "fundamental" question to be decided in the 1948 election "the issue of a

Bucyrian Flies Writer Above Hurricane for Bird's-Eye View

(United Press Staff Correspondent Richard Palmer was flying over the center of the hurricane for a bird's-eye view of the storm when all of Florida was called an emergency area and the plane was ordered to land in Cuba. His eye witness dispatch follows.)

GUANTANAMO BAY, Cuba, Sept. 17—From 10,000 feet the hurrican looked like a seething mixture of oil and milk in a witch's cauldron.

We took off in a navy PB4Y2, a four-engined privateer, to fly over the roof of the hurricane and take radar readings on its eye, that weirdly calm center of blowing hell that shows the direction in which it is moving.

Two hours after we left sunny Miami, Lt. J. R. Ingraham of Portland, Ore., Navy aerologist, motioned me to a plexiglass port in the side of the ship.

Like Forest Fire

"That's it," he yelled above the din of the engines.

At about 6,500 feet menacing black clouds boiled and seethed like the dark smoke of a huge forest fire. Occasionally there was a break in the cloud mass and far below we could see the wind-crazed ocean.

The water was whipped into waves that leaped 100 feet high and broke against the wind in a frothy mass. Ingraham estimated that the wind was raging at 110 to 160 miles an hour, according to its distance from the eye.

It was all in miniature from our altitude. It looked like the whirlpool of the Niagara river seen from the small end of a telescope during the thunderstorm.

The fury was unbelievable. We were still sailing along with the smoothness of a trip to dreamland on an innerspring mattress.

I stepped toward the cockpit door.

Bounce Like Ball

"Hang onto something," said co-pilot Lt. (J.G.) A. B. Carlson of Council Bluffs, Ia. "The air above a hurricane can bounce a four-engined plane like a medicine ball."

We flew for another hour around the top of the hurricane. The pilot, W. T. Henderson of Bucyrus, O., held the weather map in both hands, studying the storm below him.

"It's changed it's course," he said. "It's heading west."

When we took off, the storm was reported moving northwest.

Lt. C. S. Ferguson, the navigator, sat his cup of coffee on the chart table. There wasn't a ripple in the cup.

Friday and continue all day Friday and Saturday, it was stated.

FIREMEN GIVEN WARNING

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—Atty. Gen. Hugh S. Jenkins ruled today that Ohio volunteer firemen must obey all speed laws while enroute to fires unless their cars were equipped with a siren, whistle or bell audible for 500 feet and approved by State Highway Director Murray D. Shafer.

NLRB HEAD STUDIES TIME LIMIT APPEAL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17—Robert N. Denham, general counsel of the national labor relations board, disclosed today that he was considering union appeals for a five-week extension of time to file non-Communist affidavits under the Taft-Hartley act.

Unless Denham grants this leeway, thousands of cases pending before the NLRB may be thrown out without further hearing, starting next week.

Denham indicated to a reporter that he would make a decision within a day or two.

Denham has ruled that all top national officers of the AFL or the CIO must sign the non-Communist affidavits specified under the Taft-Hartley law before affiliated unions are eligible to take cases before the NLRB.

He backed up this ruling with a decree that, beginning Sept. 23, cases of unions which do not qualify will be dismissed. The NLRB has a backlog of 5,000 cases.

John L. Lewis, head of the United Mine Workers has balked at signing the non-Communist forms, thereby preventing the AFL executive council from the solid compliance required.

The CIO has postponed taking any action on the issue until its convention at Boston Oct. 13.

City Stores Plan Contest Sept. 24

RESORT COAST RIPPED; STORM MOVES INLAND

Miami and Palm Beach Feel Winds Up to 120 Miles; One Killed.

By The Associated Press

MIAMI, Fla., Sept. 17 — A giant hurricane moved inland across Florida's resort-jammed lower east coast today, and headed across the rich truck-farming sectors of the state toward the Gulf of Mexico.

The center of the storm moved over Fort Lauderdale shortly after noon.

In Miami and Palm Beach, winds reached 110 to 120 miles per hour in punishing gusts, with torrents of rain. The highway patrol reported one death by electrocution.

Miami Beach was isolated when two causeways to the mainland were closed. Several persons were missing in the churning sea.

Two Houses Burn

At West Palm Beach two houses went up in flames as result of broken power lines. Between 15,000 and 20,000 were huddled in emergency shelters there.

Two trains carrying refugees from the Lake Okeechobee region reached Mercy, Fla., safely after difficulties at West Palm Beach. They were consolidated for movement to Sebring.

A dozen commercial planes were smashed like fruit baskets at Miami.

The aircraft were reduced to wreckage as the hurricane ripped Miami's airport. All were in Latin-American service.

Two railway trains, which were to have hauled 5,000 refugees from the flood-menaced Lake Okeechobee region, were caught by the storm at Palm Beach. Crews were reported working frantically to get the stalled cars rolling, and had three locomotives hooked to one train.

Miami Beach Deserted

Swank Miami Beach was deserted and both causeways across Biscayne bay were closed. Street travel was dangerous and almost impossible.

The storm was expected to smash across the Florida peninsula with peak intensity in the Fort Myers area about nightfall.

The wind velocity was less than the record 130 mph recorded in September, 1915. There was no basis for comparison with the great storm of 1928, when winds were estimated at 150 to 200 miles per hour but were not recorded.

Winds "considerably above 100 miles per hour" beat down trees, broke communications lines and flattened light buildings as the storm mounted in force. Miami had gusts up to 108 miles per hour, and the Coast Guard at West Palm Beach said 120-mile gusts were slamming its installations.

The Coast Guard reported a 38-foot picket boat and a crew of three had disappeared on a rescue mission, and was presumed lost, but it later was sighted in very high seas and was believed to have evacuated a dozen persons stranded by high water southeast of Miami.

A private yacht with three aboard radioed an SOS, but the Coast Guard said mountainous waves and screaming winds prevented a rescue attempt. The passengers are Dr. A. M. Bosworth, and Richard Marshall and Frank Martin-Vague of Miami.

Communications Out

All communications between Miami and outside areas went out abruptly shortly after 10 a. m., and the New Orleans weather bureau said the great storm apparently was centered "very near the coast and a short distance south of Palm Beach" at 11 a. m.

An estimated 10,000 refugees from the rich Okeechobee farming and grazing area streamed through Sebring, Fla., in flight from the huge, dike-bound, hurricane-lashed lake. In 1928, approximately 1,500 persons drowned in the same lowlands.

MacDill field, near Tampa on the Florida west coast, hurriedly evacuated its heavy bombers, sending several B-29's to Scott and Chanute fields in the midwest.

Many thousands fled the powerful blow, seeking refuge in public buildings, schools and hotels.

At 8:45 a. m., the storm was placed "close to the coast and still moving in a westerly direction." It appeared to be centered 60 miles east of Delray Beach.

The great blow, possibly the worst since 1928 when 2,500 perished and $75,000,000 damage was inflicted, piled up the waters of Lake Okeechobee behind Palm Beach, and Sheriff John Kirk said:

"I hope to God the dikes hold." (They were built after the 1928 storm).

The rich, populous lower east

England's John Cobb Hangs Up Auto Speed Record of 403.135

By The United Press

BONNEVILLE SALT FLATS, Utah, Sept 17—England's John Cobb said today it "made me feel like a king for a minute" to rip along the ground at more than 400 miles an hour—the first man to travel that fast on land.

After weeks of disappointments and false starts, the London fur broker late yesterday got away to his first successful speed run since the war and within 35 minutes:

1—Established a new world's land speed record for the measured mile of 394.196 miles an hour. His old mark, set in 1939 here, was 368.85.

2—Made a new world's record for the measured kilometer of 393.825 mph. Cobb's previous best was 369.7.

3—Averaged 403.135 mph through the mile on the northbound run of his two trips along the 14½ mile straightaway. No one has ever gone that fast before in a car.

On that lightning-like south-to-north dash, Cobb's 7,700-pound Railton Mobil special was in the measured mile only 8.93 seconds.

Cobb didn't even stop at the tire changing pit after his run to the north. He circled widely and drove "slowly"—between 70 and 100 mph—back to "victory lane" at the AAA timers' stand.

His bride, Elizabeth, was the first of 1,000 trackside spectators to greet him. She kissed him and said she was "terribly thrilled." She said she was surprised—she didn't think he would do more than 400 miles an hour. Cobb was more than thrilled.

"It make me feel like a king for a minute to go over 400 miles an hour," the RAF veteran and world's speed king beamed. "And the car hasn't reached its limit yet. It could do better if the course was smoother."

However, Cobb's had enough for the time being—He has to get back to England to tend to his fur business.

NEWSPAPER PUBLICITY CALLED CRIME CURE

Judge Recommends Publishing Names of Juvenile Offenders.

By The Associated Press

SPENCER, W. Va., Sept 16—Saying newspaper publicity is "the greatest single agency in the prevention of crime," Circuit Judge Lewis H. Miller told the new Roane county grand jury he favors amendment of West Virginia law so newspapers can use the names of accused juveniles.

Judge Miller pointed to an increase in juvenile delinquency as he gave the jury its charge and commented:

"Until we make known the facts, this type of crime will continue to grow. West Virginia is faced with a terrific problem in the rehabilitation of delinquents.

"One answer to that problem lies in publicity to halt the trend. Newspapers, by distributing facts about crime conditions, provide necessary information to bring about helpful reformation."

HOW MANY BEANS IN THE JAR?

If you're old enough you probably remember how the local grocer used to put a jar of beans in his window, and give a prize to the one guessing nearest to the number of beans. No one usually came very close to the correct number.

Recently a modern version of this game was played in the U. S. People were asked how many individual petroleum companies there were in the country. Here, too, the guesses were plenty wild!

Eighteen per cent of those guessing said there were 15 or less. The average guess was 28. What would you say? 100?—150? Well . . . get ready for a surprise. There are 34,000 individual oil companies in the country today! And, in addition, there are 225,000 service stations.

Here's why the number of oil companies is important to you. These separate organizations are rivals for business. Through rivalry in search for new oil they have increased our country's oil resources . . . finding new supplies, and inventing ways to get oil that couldn't be had before. They compete in building pipe lines for lower cost transportation. They improve products and services so that they can offer you something better than competition can. They work to reduce costs so that the price to you will be more attractive.

Whether in the development of a new life-saving medicine, an invention which adds millions of barrels of oil to America's available resources, or a new lubricant which helps your car last longer . . . everyone profits all the way down the line, thanks to the progressive rivalry between 34,000 U. S. oil companies!

Both ordinances were passed by unanimous vote of council in its Friday night session. He has ten days to sign the legislation.

Other business of council, Tuesday night, was: an ordinance passed authorizing Service Director Poister to enter into contract with Dowell, Inc., of Cleveland, for the cleaning of the boilers at the municipal light and power plant. BROMFIELD DEPLORES "BAD AGRICULTURE"

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17—Most of the farmers hope for high prices and government subsidies to sustain them instead of taking care of themselves through good agricultural practices, Louis Bromfield, author, declared last night.

Speaking before the final session of the Grain and Feed Dealers National association convention, Bromfield said, "the people are going to get tired of paying taxes to keep bad farmers alive."

"If the government had spent half as much time in finding proper markets for wheat as it has worrying about surplus wheat, there would never have been any surpluses," he said.

The Ohio novelist said that good agriculture was practiced by only 10 per cent of the nation's farmers.

"If the United States does not develop its agriculture properly, we will become a second or third rate power," he added.

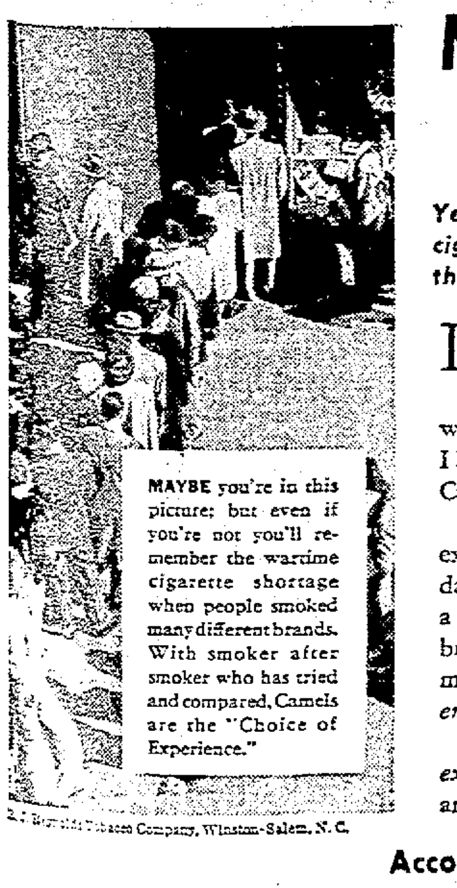
More people are smoking CAMELS than ever before!



MAYBE you're in this picture; but even if you're not you'll remember the wartime cigarette shortage when people smoked many different brands. With smoker after smoker who has tried and compared, Camels are the "Choice of Experience."

Yes, experience during the wartime cigarette shortage taught millions the differences in cigarette quality!

LET POLO STAR Cecil Smith tell you in his own words:

"That cigarette shortage during the war was a real experience. That's when I learned how much I really appreciated Camels. They suit me to a 'T'!"

Yes, that shortage was a revealing experience to smokers everywhere. One day they smoked one brand—next day a different brand. Now and then the brand was Camel. That's how so many more smokers learned . . . from experience . . . that Camels suit them best.

Railroaders Spin Tale of Slump On Hard Pressed and Eastern

By FREDERICK C. OTHMAN

United Press Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16—The railroad moguls filed all last week into a gold-trimmed hearing room with a sky-blue ceiling to tell about hard times on the Square Wheel, Threadbare, Rust Streak and Western.

If they don't get hikes in their freight rates, they told the interstate commerce commission, they'll have to change the name of the road—any railroad—to the Shakebone, Hotbox and Oblivion. They're spending more than they're taking in and they are desperate.

The five commissioners, with Chairman Clyde B. Aitchison in the center, sat there, gray of hair and grayish of face. Their eyeglasses glistened under the six enormous chandeliers and made their faces look blank. It was impossible to guess what they were thinking.

Put Up Good Case

The starving railroaders put up a good case for a 10 per cent rate boost at once and 17 per cent more a little later. I say this advisedly because their sympathetic customers, the shippers, were on the stand today.

The lumber, fruit, aluminum, beer, paper box, cement, steel, rayon, cigar, plate glass and folding paper box boys agreed almost to a man that the railroads deserved higher freight rates on all merchandise, except their own. Their own charges in nearly every case, they testified, were too high already.

And still the commissioners sat as expressionless as stone idols, while the railroad presidents and their lawyers bit their fingernails. This digital gnawing was especially piteous to behold when J. M. Carey, traffic manager of the National Gypsum Co., Buffalo, N. Y., tossed in a new idea.

He said if the railroads shook their stumps a little, so that it wouldn't take two weeks to send a carload of plaster on an overnight journey, they'd handle more business at a profit. Then he threw the book at 'em; his book, consisting of a sheaf of way bills.

No Wonder Ink Is Red

These showed that the railroads—let's call 'em the Slowpokes, Cold Molasses, and Stumble-Feet—spent 12 days sending a car of lime from Toledo to Pittsburgh; 18 days from Mobile to Chicago; and 17 days from Fort Dodge, Ia., to Elgin, Ill. No wonder, he said, they're in the red. And short of box cars.

Most of the other business chieftains agreed with L. E. Galaspie, assistant general traffic manager of the Reynolds Metal Co., Louisville, Ky., as to their sympathy for the hungry railways.

Galaspie, who was as gray-haired and as dignified as the commissioners, said his firm manufactured aluminum and that it's position could be stated briefly: it had no objection to the railroads slapping higher rates on freight, so long as they went easy on aluminum.

They charge too much to carry aluminum already, he said, and he can ship it around the country cheaper by truck. He probably will, too, if the railroads raise his charges.

Such testimony, in language so complicated it's hard to understand, will continue the rest of this week. Then the commissioners will make their decision. Its effect on the railroads will be enormous; on business and the economic state of the nation bigger still. Let us keep our fingers crossed for the ICC.

Wild West Was Old Stuff To East in 1660

By HAL BOYLE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK—The American wild west was born here in the east—on Long Island.

Cattle drives, cowboys and Indians were old stuff on Montauk Point at the eastern tip of Long Island nearly 200 years before a steer ever saw Dodge City or Abilene, Kan.

This grass and shadbush covered headland — slightly larger than Manhattan Island—is probably America's first major grazing range, and they still have annual cattle drives just as they have had almost every year since 1660.

Hal Boyle

In those days the settlers had to take turns herding the cattle. It was a public responsibility then such as jury duty is now. Instead of warring with the native Montauk Indians the settlers paid them a 50-cent fee for each steer grazed on their hunting grounds.

It still is a community gala day each spring when Phineas Dickinson, a young war veteran who is Montauk's only remaining rancher, drives his western-bought cattle from the railhead out to the sea swept moors upon which they fatten all summer.

Many Cowboys, Few Cattle

"Sometimes there are more people to help us herd than there are cattle to herd," said Frank Dickinson Jr., brother of the rancher.

They, like their father who started the ranching business after the First World War, are native easterners and have had no experience on western ranches.

"We don't need branding irons as we have the only herd out here," said Frank J. "This year we're fattening about 160 head."

Colonial ranchers 200 years ago, however, were plagued both by wolves and rustlers. Each family had its own distinctive earmark for its cattle, and the earmarks were registered with town officials.

At one period up to 6,000 cattle grazed annually on Montauk, but the industry declined rapidly as the area became a sport fishing and yachting resort. The late Carl Graham Fisher, seeking to make "another Miami Beach" of Montauk, paid $3,000,000 for 9,700 acres in 1926 and spent many more millions converting it into a summer playground for the well-to-do.

Luxury yachts and deep sea fishing vessels ply now about the coves where pirates once held rendezvous. Tourists still go looking for treasure rumored buried there by Capt. Kidd and other gracious skippers.

Dude Ranch Remains

The Indians have died out or melted into citizenship and about the only touch of its "horse opera" past left on Montauk besides the Dickinson cattle is a dude ranch operated by a tenderfoot couple, Bill and Mary Cooper, who previously spent 18 years in the hotel business.

They remodeled an old 1806 ranchhouse which served as headquarters for Teddy Roosevelt and his Rough Riders when they came back from the Spanish-American war.

Toe dancers, stenographers, models and business men weary of the swivel chair come out from Manhattan to gallop around the mild Hereford cattle.

"It's a better business than serving a la carte meals," said Mrs. Cooper.

Her biggest problem lies in persuading over-enthusiastic dude riders to wear long woolen underwear beneath their denim trousers. That's the rub.

The women of ancient Greece were barred from the Olympics both as spectators and participants.

Constitution Day

TODAY is Constitution day. One hundred sixty years ago the Constitutional convention adjourned in Philadelphia, having drafted the basic law under which the young republic was to function.

The difficulties under which the new constitution went to the states for ratification have been obscured by time. There was jealousy between the large and the small states. Every state was loath to surrender prerogatives to a central government. Legalists asked, "how is a government which is not to be changed except by the legislatures of all the states, as provided by the old articles of confederation, to be supplanted by a different system through approval of three-fourths of them?" Fortunately, the question never was pursued very diligently, nor were other questions equally perplexing.

The constitution's great advantages through the years have been its system of checks and balances and its elasticity. It contains ample provisions for amendment, yet amendment is made such a formidable step that it is not undertaken lightly. It was originally conceived as a framework to be filled, as the need arose, by legislation and the utilization of implied powers.

The last 160 years have seen radical changes in every major government except our own. That is a tribute to the founding fathers for the statesmanlike instrument with which they endowed the nation they established.

Football for Fun

A CHORUS of bleats from coaches of the Southwest conference whose breakaway runners and indestructible linemen are being lured to greener pastures by salary boosts helps to open the 1947 collegiate football season with an appropriate cash-register-bell overture.

As with all other commodities in short supply, football players are bringing what the traffic will bear right now, hence the bleats from coaches and athletic directors trying to get along on limited budgets. They are being bid out of the market by the big-money crowd, poor fellows.

Meanwhile, the financial success of the professional game is opening fresh vistas of five-digit contracts for competent gridiron workmen lucky enough to be scouted by operators that put the cash on the barrel-head, instead of in a tin can under an oak box tree at midnight. The few remaining amateurs left in the game, outside of the institutions that have decided to cut their payrolls and go back to the old days of letting the boys play for fun, would be daffy if they didn't realize a football player is worth what someone will pay him—no more, no less. It's pretty silly, after all, that the only people who are expected to get nothing out of football but fun are the players—everybody else takes cash.

Candid Candidate

WHATEVER labor leaders may think about Senator Taft, they are referred to the statement by Harry Lundeberg, president of the Seamen's Union of the Pacific, who had a bone to pick with the senator concerning the Taft-Hartley act. When he emerged from the meeting, Lundeberg said, "a lot of politicians give you the sweet corn. But this fellow gives you the answers."

Nobody can accuse the Ohio senator of evading an issue. He takes stands on any and all subjects of national concern on which he is well enough informed to have an opinion. Sometimes he says bluntly what's on his mind, as when he advised Americans to "eat less meat and eat less extravagantly." Expressed in political gobbledygook that idea would have gone unnoticed.

The words "candor" and "candidate" derive from the same Latin root, but it isn't often they're linked in the public mind. In his role as a candid candidate, Senator Taft is meeting issues head-on, to the concern of some of his backers. The phrase "no comment" has so long been the candidate's refuge they can't get used to seeing one pass it up.

A Word of Caution

SEPTEMBER marks the start of the season of hazardous driving conditions. Motorists will do well to use extra caution. They must remember that wet pavements can be unexpectedly slippery, that reduced speeds are necessary when visibility is poor. Lights, windows and windshields should be kept clear of spattered muddy water.

The days are at hand when all safe-driving maxims go double. Drivers who remember that stand a good chance of seeing another summer.

Did You Know

In 1940, 12 per cent of American girls between 15 and 19 years old were married compared with two per cent in England, Scotland and Wales and one per cent in Ireland, Norway and Germany.

Scientists, during the rubber-short war years, attempted to find a substitute in such things as golden rod and the so-called Russian dandelion.

Form of the Marshall Plan

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Will Take Action by Congress To Give It Substance.

UNLESS the President calls a special session of congress, the Marshall plan, whatever it turns out to be, will have to wait until January or February for congressional debate and passage. Although nobody but the debaters at Paris know precisely what the Marshall plan is, about 100 members of congress are in Europe trying to find out for themselves. That is a new type of congressional hearing, but actually it will not save a day—for those Americans who favor or oppose whatever plan appears will wish to be heard. And they will be heard.

It has been suggested that the American people are fully informed as to the Marshall plan because Secretary Marshall delivered a speech at Harvard announcing it. What George Marshall said on that occasion was broad, general, ambiguous. I quote his exact words:

"Our policy is directed not against any country or doctrine but against hunger, poverty, desperation and chaos. Its purpose should be the revival of a working economy in the world so as to permit the emergence of political and social conditions in which free institutions can exist. Such assistance, I am convinced, must not be on a piecemeal basis as various crises develop. Any assistance that this government may render in the future should provide a cure rather than a mere palliative.

"Any government that is willing to assist in the task of recovery will find full cooperation, I am sure, on the part of the United States government. Any government which maneuvers to block the recovery of other countries cannot expect help from us. Furthermore, governments, political parties or groups which seek to perpetuate human misery in order to profit therefrom politically or otherwise will encounter the opposition of the United States."

Help for the "Good"

The Marshall plan has to do with dollars credited to "good" European countries, which help themselves and apparently are not communist, as a subsidy. Obviously, Secretary Marshall at Harvard could not and did not specify the amount, the terms, whether the money was to be a gift like the British, Greek and Turkish loans or a repayable loan. Congress will have to deal with specific appropriations and specific terms.

From Paris come many reports, rumors, hearsay and prophecy, but no facts. For a time, the preponderance of these straws in the wind indicated that the United States was to contribute $5,000,000,000 a year for four years, making a total of $20,000,000,000. Now the report is that the Europeans want $2,000,000,000 for 10 years, making a total of $20,000,000,000. In other words, if these reports from Paris be true either way, the Europeans wish us to give them an additional $20,000,000,000 over and above lend-lease, UNRRA, military feeding, the British loan and the Greco-Turkish subsidies, to say nothing of what we have put into China, Japan, Korea, Saudi Arabia, and the Lord knows where else.

No Dollars To Go

Of course, we shall not actually ship dollars. To be shipped principally are goods, at a time of shortages, at high prices which make our prices higher. When Ernest Bevin suggested that the Fort Knox gold be redistributed, he was speaking in loose Socialistic language, proposing a capital levy on the United States the way a capital levy was applied to the British people by nationalization. Actually, what we wanted was the produce of our efficient factories because his produce inefficiently.

What comes of it is that the Marshall plan is a procedure for getting $20,000,000,000 out of the United States in four, five or ten annual installments as a "redistribution of wealth" among the nations of the world by applying a capital levy upon the United States. No matter how the argument is packaged, that is what it comes down to. Congress will be asked to do that to save Europe from the Communist menace just as we were asked to agree to lend-lease to save Europe from the Nazi menace, just as we were asked to agree to the Greco-Turkish subsidy to save the Mediterranean from the Russian menace.

How many menaces are there? How much must we pay to keep these menaces from us? When shall we be free of them? Or are these "menaces" just another name for "emergencies?"

Just a Minute

By JACK TARVER

Gigantic, Collossal Stupendous and Cheap

Faced with the loss of their British market, U. S. film producers reportedly are drastically reducing their payrolls.

As a consequence, many's the Hollywood big-shot who doesn't know where his next swimming pool's coming from.

Belt - tightening in Hollywood consists of letting one of the butlers go and struggling along with last year's yacht.

Still, if things get really tough, some of the cinemaharajas may not be able to support their ex-wives and relatives in the style to which they've become accustomed.

Of course, if the personnel reductions are carried far enough, it will prove a boon to movie fans. Imagine getting to see a picture without thirty minutes of screen-credits beforehand.

Incidentally, it isn't only in the realm of the payroll that the economic pinch is being felt in Hollywood. There is even a possibility that the next Cecil B. DeMille epic will be made with a second-hand bath-tub.

Launching Big Rockets at Sea

By ROBERT M. FARRINGTON

WASHINGTON—Navy officers agree that the firing of a German V-2 from the deck of the 45,000-ton carrier Midway was a demonstration of a sea-going launching site, rather than a new role for the flattops.

They believed it extremely unlikely that carriers of the future will be expected to fire big rockets and launch airplanes too. Special guided missile ships will be the thing in their opinion. In announcing the test the Navy said it "will mark the beginning of a new era in naval weapons."

A carrier is not a combatant ship in itself but rather a floating garage for a swarm of fighting planes. It can protect itself somewhat with anti-aircraft guns but is not designed for hammer-and-tongs battle.

Two New Missile Ships

Two ships under construction, the 45,000-ton battleship Kentucky and the 27,500-ton large cruiser Hawaii, are being converted into guided missile ships.

The catch is that nobody knows what a guided missile ship should be, and work is proceeding very slowly while Navy planners test out theories and ideas.

Best bet at present is that they will be fast, able to take the pounding of a battleship, have provisions against atom bomb blasts and, of course, fire big rockets and controlled missiles.

Meanwhile, the stock of captured V-2s is dwindling and the Navy is looking forward to experimenting with its brand-new rocket, the Neptune, slated for testing next June.

Advance publicity on the American-made rockets predicts it will soar 235 miles into the air, twice as fast as the V-2 has gone in New Mexico altitude tests. Experts believe the 235-mile figure may be exceeded considerably when the Neptune is finally tried out. Presumably it might be capable of 500 miles in a horizontal direction.

The Neptune's Load

About as long as the V-2 (46 feet), the Neptune is much slimmer. Over 7,000 of its fully loaded weight of 11,410 pounds is taken up by fuel. It is scheduled to carry one ton of instruments (or explosive) in its nose.

The Navy regards it as the largest practical rocket for shipboard use and from it expects to learn enough to design actual war rockets for the Kentucky and Hawaii.

Years will pass, according to the best naval opinion, before perfection of the truly long-range rocket, complete with atomic bomb for a warhead.

Solution for Traffic Woes

Driving Problems Cut Use of Cars to 500 Hours a Year.

TRAFFIC discouragements, now at all-time peak, cause the average motorist to use his car only 500 hours a year, or the equivalent of about 21 days, Lyman W. Slack, vice president and general sales manager of the Packard Motor Car Co., told the Tennessee Automotive Association. "Traffic congestion, lack of adequate parking facilities, the increasing accident toll and numerous other driving discouragements are mainly responsible for the fact the average car is idle the equivalent of about 344 days a year," he said.

"Most of these problems can and should be solved at the local level," Slack said. "Driving must be made safer and easier. If each driver is encouraged—through added safety and convenience—to drive twice as many miles in the year to come, everyone, I mean not only drivers and dealers, but millions of others. One out of every seven persons in the United States earns a living directly or indirectly from the automobile industry.

"If these traffic discouragement's aren't solved, we may well ask ourselves whether more and more people will turn to other means of transportation."

Despite expanding safety campaigns, traffic fatalities increased nationally during the past vacation season, Slack reported. "With more vehicles in use than ever before, an all-time peak in automotive travel has been reached. This is one of the main reasons for the increase in fatalities," he said.

Slack pointed out the average age of cars on the road today is eight and a half years, compared with four and a half in 1941. "Creeping paralysis and old age are overtaking highway transportation," he warned. "I don't think it's a bit too early to think seriously of special examinations for all vehicles over 10 years old. We must make driving safer and easier," he concluded.

The National Airport at Washington covers 729 acres, and is 171 acres larger than New York's La Guardia airport.

The Kremlin's New Line?

By JOSEPH ALSOP

ROME, Sept. 17—This unreal political landscape resembles nothing so much as a hillside still brightly flecked with sunshine in the instant before a great storm darkly descends. The light is deceptive, and conclusions must be tentative. Yet it is certainly worth noting the clear probability that the Kremlin has now altered the directive of the Western European Communist parties. After more than two years of half measures, an immediate offensive in full force seems to have been commanded.

It is appropriate that the first signs of this great event should become visible here in Italy. For it was also here in Italy that the Western European Communist line was established for the immediate post-war period. The story is dramatic.

Very briefly, the Communist groups of Italian partisans were early organized by veterans of the international brigade in Spain sent out from Moscow. Their main task, moreover, was not to fight the Italian Fascists and German Nazis, but to prepare for a seizure of power on the classical revolutionary pattern in the expected chaos of Fascist Italy's defeat. Most of their energy was therefore employed in attacking possible future competitors.

Communist Action

Then the surrender of Marshal Badoglio led to the establishment of the pro-Ally co-belligerent Italian government in southern Italy. The Italian Communists instantly denounced it as a set of Fascists in fancy dress; set up a great outcry against the king's remaining in Italy, and roundly vowed their perpetual opposition.

At this juncture there arrived in Italy from Moscow none other than Palmiro Togliatti, Western Europe's most eminent wearer of the Comintern old school tie. In 24 hours he made it clear that the Italian comrades on the spot, lacking the benefit of his higher education, had been misreading the holy books. The presence of the King, and the company of Fascists in fancy dress, equally ceased to be obstacles. The Communists, headed by Togliatti, entered the government at once. This set the pattern for Western Europe as a whole.

It is now obvious that behind this deeply significant event there was an extremely hard-headed decision by the Kremlin. This decision may be outlined as follows:

First, in Eastern Europe, a gigantic, monolithic power center was to be organized, composed of the Soviet Union and its surrounding satellites. Here, of course, Soviet rule was to be absolute. Second, however, a more cautious policy was to be followed in Western Europe. The Communists were not to seek full power. They were merely to infiltrate the various Western European governments, and to remain within those governments by hook or by crook, especially the latter.

This explains the many puzzling features of French and Italian Communist post-war policy—the emphasis on co-operation for national reconstruction; the highly un-Marxist nationalism suddenly flaunted; Togliatti's odd benison on the Lateran pact in Italy; and so forth. Remaining within the governments was the prime mission, to which every Marxist commandment was boldly sacrificed.

This in turn had two purposes. From within the Western European governments, the Communists were to prevent any opposition to Soviet foreign policy. And they were also to maintain a general condition of political disorganization and governmental feebleness which would, at length, reduce the Western European states to the semblance of a mere heap of iron filings. Then, the great power center in Eastern Europe, having been triumphantly completed, was to become a magnet irresistibly attracting the iron filings to itself.

Two Omissions

In planning this shrewd strategy, the Kremlin omitted two essential factors. Even the French and Italians, the worst war sufferers in Western Europe, retained unexpected vigor and independence was also unexpectedly stimulated by the clumsy but determined opposition of the United States to the Soviets. At length the whole strategy was defeated when Premier de Gasperi expelled the Communists from office in Italy and Premier Ramadier kept them out in France. Worse still, the United States announced the Marshall plan. This held out the shocking danger that instead of remaining disorganized, Western Europe might regain strength and health—might even, perish the thought, begin to exercise an attraction of its own for the Soviet satellites.

For the present, none the less, there is still disorganization; there is still hunger; there is still little hope in Western Europe.

The United States, which can restore stability and hopefulness, is slow and ungainly as usual. The Kremlin's opportunity is now. Hence the present change in the party line. Co-operation in national reconstruction is at an end. Instead, the Communist party's power in the labor movement is being used for great political strikes like those in northern Italy. Hesitation is at end also. The Communists are taking the offensive. If the paralysis of American policy affords the chance, the Western European Communist parties will now try to seize what they did not before desire—full power and full responsibility. That is something for the Washington policy makers to mull over rather prayerfully.

She can see from where she [illegible] standing that it is grease, which is not funny with shirts selling at upward of $5 for the good ones, which is the kind he has on, as if he cared.

Moreover, has he forgotten that he ruined his necktie in the same deal?

Besides, she scrubbed until her eyes were glassy trying to get the spots out of the shirt he ruined when he experimented to see what the new cleaning compound would do to the paint on the back door—and the spots are still there. She notices, moreover, that he managed to [illegible] a pair of good shoes by deciding to do some spading without changing to an old pair.

Federation Opens New Season With Meeting at Home

ACTIVITIES of the 1947-48 season got under way yesterday for the Marion County Federation of Women's clubs when the executive board held its first meeting at the Federation Home. The year marks the golden jubilee of the federation and an early event on the calendar is the Central District conference to be held here Oct. 29. As in former years there will be programs with worthwhile speakers and early in the new year there will be a program for which tickets will be sold to the general public.

Mrs. T. H. Sutherland, who is beginning her second year as head of the federation, presided for the meeting. Mrs. Fillmore Young, program chairman, announced dates and speakers for the year's program. On Nov. 6, Marion Foster Smith widely known speaker from Pennsylvania, will present the topic, "Ten Rooms in the House of Life," and on Tuesday. Dec. 2 Ardis Alling of New York City will give a dramatization of "The Nativity," with a musical setting The Feb. 3 program will bring Mrs. R. P. The Feb 3 program will be shared with the public and is being planned as a special program, aside from the series arranged for club members and patronesses. A general admission will be asked for the program and tentative plans include presenting it at the Masonic temple.

Assisting Mrs Sutherland as co-chairman for the Central district conference is Mrs. Clarence W. Weber, who also is fine arts chairman of the state federation. Ohio Labor Federation Studies 200 Resolutions

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, Sept. 17 — The Ohio State Federation of Labor convention turns its attention to resolutions today after hearing two days of blasts against Sen. Robert A. Taft (R-Ohio) and the Taft-Hartley law.

Phil Hannah, secretary-treasurer of the federation, said copies of some 200 resolutions would be distributed to delegates, preparatory to action on them late today or tomorrow

John Breidenbach of Dayton, president of the Ohio State Build- and Construction Trades council and vice president of the state federation, told the convention yesterday that Taft had "euchred himself out of the presidency by some of the silly things he has said and done recently"

He said he referred to the Cincinnatian's co-authorship of the Taft-Hartley law and his recent statements that Americans should eat less."

CAMPAIGN

n compliance with the joint Resolution No 176 of the Seventy-ninth congress, approved Aug 11, 1945, which designated the first week in October of every year as National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week" During this time, ceremonies are held for the purpose of encouraging public support and interest for the employment of otherwise qualified but physically limited workers Proclamations are issued annually by the President of the United States governors of the states of the United States, and the mayors of the cities supporting this observance

Cites Example

At yesterday's meeting, Dr V E Busler stated that the churches as a whole he felt were in favor of the program He said that in 1859, a Mr. Morgan in Boston began helping handicapped workers by assisting in the establishment of 'Good Will Industries" who hired only handicapped workers This project was known as the "Morgan Memorial' project and was at first a Methodist project which grew to the point that these industries are now inter-denominational He stated that 'Good Will Industries' are located in many cities throughout the United States including Zanesville, Cincinnati, Boston, and Dayton The units of these industries gather up anything that can be repaired, the handicapped workers repair the articles, and the repaired articles are placed on sale at nominal prices

Mr Douthitt stated that he felt the chief function of the committee was to sell employers on the fact that these physically limited workers can be employed in certain types of work and make better employes in that work than any one else. He further stated that it was up to the members of the committee to show employers the advantages of hiring handicapped workers—they apply themselves better when they are placed in proper positions they have fewer outside activities and interests and therefore have their minds on the work they are doing, they are more sincere in their work because they realize that employment is more difficult to get with their physical limitations and as a result they assist in decreasing employers' turnover

M. Douthitt suggested that all physically limited workers registered with the employment service be given aptitude tests to determine in what lines of work they would excel The committee in cooperation with the OSES is working on plans to offer this service to employers and workers of the area.

The employment service reported that there are 80 physically limited workers seeking employment through the OSES, 44 of whom are veterans All of these workers are over 18 years of age and only 10 are over 55 years of age.

ning armament regulations under the security council.

6. Veto — The "abuse" of the veto right—again Marshall did not specifically name Russia—"has prevented the security council from fulfilling its true function" The United States intends to propose that the assembly create a special committee to study ways of liberalizing the veto and report next year.

7. Security Committee—The assembly now has so much work to do, Marshall said, that it needs an agency to remain in session all the time, keep an eye on the world's troubles, clear up routine matters as they arise and recommend a special session of the full assembly when necessary

"U. S. Desires Security"

Marshall declared the United States attitude toward the whole range of problems now before the UN "is founded on a very genuine desire to perfect the organization so as to safeguard the security of states and the well-being of their peoples"

In sketching the American estimate of the background of world affairs against which the United Nations is now working Marshall said that today "men look anxiously toward the future, wondering whether a new and more terrible conflict will engulf them"

"A supreme effort is required from us all if we are to succeed in breaking through the vicious circles of deepening political and economic crisis," he said.

An immediate reaction from the Russians seemed probable, since Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky was on schedule to speak to the assembly later in the day.

New Drugs To Fight High Blood Pressure Outlined To Savants

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Reporter

NEW YORK, Sept. 17 — Some new drugs showing promise of combatting high blood pressure were reported today to the American Chemical society

They have been tried so far, however, only in animals, and are not yet ready for human tests

The drugs did not cause bad effects of nausea and vomiting like debenamine often does, they said Several of the drugs also showed promise of acting effectively against heyfever, hives, and other allergies, they added

Human health may be menaced by butter and milk from cows eating grass treated with DDT, Dr O Garth Fitzhugh of the division of pharmacology, food and drug administration, said.

Cows can transmit the insecticide to their milk, he said. The DDT is concentrated in the butter-fat part of the milk, and "a relatively small amount in the whole milk could possible result in an injurious amount in the butter"

Dr Albert E Sobel and Dr. Albert Hanok of the pediatric research laboratory, Jewish hospital of Brooklyn, said children's teeth can be protected from decay by including enough phosphorous to balance the calcium in their diets

Too much calcium in the diet may make teeth soft and vulnerable to attack by food acids, they said

STASSEN

"is not a perfect plan" but "we need to realistically face alternatives"

"As Europe moves into this next bleak winter, there are only two plans for Europe—one is the Marshall plan, and the other is the Communist plan," he said

The address had been described by the Minnesotan a week ago as one "of some major significance" in which he would outline his views on world economic policy

Suggests 4 Points

Stassen suggested four factors which he said should be included in implementation of the Marshall plan:

► Help for all European nations should be given to prevent starvation and suffering "regardless of their individual economic, social or political decisions"

► Major contributions should be made to the rebuilding of economies of nations "only if they are moving in a direction of economic freedom of their own people and are not sliding down the road of Socialism or Communism" This aid should be "substantial, not miserly," he said, and should be extended over at least five years

► Congressional appropriations for the program should not be made to the nations as loans but to an American agency, "a peace production board, if you will," which could institute "proper scheduling of manufacturing and purchasing"

► Nations receiving help should be required "to agree that raw materials under their control would be available to us in future years on the same basis as they are available to others"

High Court Judge Asks for Change In Rules of War

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Sept. 17—The rules of war should be revised completely, Justice Robert H Jackson of the supreme court asserted last night, countering a Soviet demand for a ban on use of the atomic bomb.

This revision, the justice said in an address to the closing session of the first annual convention of the Air Force association, especially should apply to the use of air power and treatment of prisoners subscribed to by all powers including Russia.

Although Justice Jackson, chief American prosecutor at the Nazi war crimes trial at Nuernberg, Germany, said neither Russia nor the United States wanted war, he tempered optimism with this comment:

"In a situation so tense with competition and struggle, a slight fumble on either side might provide the 'incident' that would precipitate an unwanted war."

Justice Jackson failed to express any views as to use of the atomic bomb but insisted that "at all events, if Russia desires new laws of war, her relation to existing ones should be clarified and settled."

But, he added, adoption of modern laws of war will be useless unless ample strength is available to back them up

Thomas G Lanphier Jr of Boise, Ida, is the new president of the Air Force association, succeeding James H Doolittle, famed Tokyo raider, who was named board chairman.

Lanphier as a fighter pilot during the last war shot down a transport carrying Japanese Admiral Yamamoto

Movie Actor Jimmy Stewart was named first vice president

coast was battened down for full force, but the state's $100 000,000 citrus crop was in incaluable danger

The barometer plummeted in Miami, and weather-wise residents in the target area huddled in public shelters and in reinforced buildings Heaviest force was expected near Palm Beach, where cyclonic winds up to 160 miles per hour may lash in from the sea.

Before the mighty winds wheel around their center to strike Miami, they will pass over land Their force drops off sharply under these circumstances, but they still contain a mighty wallop Miami is in for no picnic.

Gusty gales swept the city, becoming stronger and stronger Before this story can be printed they will climb to hurricane force.

Hammers Drowned Out

The tap-tap-tap of hammers, nailing up storm protection over glass windows, echoed through the night At times the howl of the gale drowned out the sound of the hammers

Some of the wind blasts are dry Others sting the face with raindrops that fly like bullets Already a few trees have toppled The green glare of short circuited wires flashes up occasionally

At least 10 000 persons fled the area around Lake Okeechobee before midnight, filling the highway in a bumper-to-bumper parade Two evacuation trains of 85 coaches, baggage and box cars chugged out of Pahokee on the esatern rim of the lake as authorities desperately tried to evacuate the entire population in that area.

Here 19 years ago, a disastrous storm blew lake waters over farm communities and drowned nearly 1,500 persons.

Housing Is Problem

Storm refugees piled into Palm Beach Many families crowded into the rambling stone courthouse The Norton art gallery on Olive street was converted into a hospital for expectant mothers.

"Will the Okeechobee dikes hold?" was the question among thousands who filled Palm Beach's courthouse, most schools and every hotel and rooming house in the city.

Meanwhile, another tropical disturbance was located about 150 miles east northeast of Trinidad, but the Army reconnaissance weather squadron reported it contained no alarmingly high winds

Thousands of planes flew out of the Florida danger and air line flights were halted Hotels were jammed, along with courthouses city halls and other public buildings as residents sought the safety of substantial structures—many of them erected following disastrous hurricanes of other years.

Guardsmen Mobilized

Gov Millard F. Caldwell gave blanket authority to Adj. Gen Mark W. Lance to mobilize the state's 1,500 national guardsmen Troops were placed on the alert at Miami, West Palm Beach and Jacksonville

Director H. N Kirkman of the Florida highway patrol said his men had prepared auxiliary power units and mobile communication units

Inmates of the state's prison farm at Belle Glade were evacuated to Fort Myers, on the west cost.

Radio "hams" were on the alert, in Florida and as far north as Maine, to handle emergency traffic.

Disaster relief units swung into action opening shelters and providing necessities for the thousands who sought shelter from the approaching storm.

Truman's Ship To Take Action To Avoid Storm

By The Associated Press

ABOARD USS MISSOURI, Sept 17—Officers of this battleship bringing President Truman home from Brazil prepared today to take "evasive action" if necessary to avoid a hurricane off the coast of Florida

The Missouri was around 900 miles east of St Augustine, Fla, and appeared unlikely to approach within several hundred miles of the slow-moving storm center. If a change of course should become necessary to avoid the hurricane's path, the battleship could easily outrun it

The Missouri is scheduled to debark the presidential party Friday at Norfolk, Va, and Mr Truman plans to be back in the White House Saturday

OHIO HIGH COURT MAY SETTLE TRAIN ARGUMENT

To Air Petition To Abandon Akron, Mt. Vernon, Columbus Run.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O, Sept. 17—Ohio's supreme court may have to say again whether the Pennsylvania railroad's trains No. 604 and 605 are necessary to the convenience of the public of Akron, Mt. Vernon, Columbus, and way stations, including the village banks which get their folding money by registered mail

A public utilities commission hearing marked by bickering between counsel for the Pennsylvania and the railroad brotherhoods went into its second day, but the court fight was already set up by comments of the latter

The court ruled once, in 1940, in the case of the village of Millersburg against the road, that the Pennsylvania could not abandon these two trains, one running each way daily between Akron and Columbus.

However, the road renewed its application last spring on grounds that passenger traffic was not heavy enough to warrant continuing the service

-dustrialist Asks ogram To Assure Years of Work

Associated Press

PIDS Mich., Sept -sponsored pro- -rantee employment -ring the 35 years -est productivity" Monday night by - Muskegon, Mich.,

before the Roman -ate congress, Seyferth shared the platform with CIO President Philip Murray and Rev. Raymond S Clancy, director of social action for the Detroit archdiocese, as the delegates from Illinois Indiana and Michigan gave their attention to labor-management problems.

Murray, suggesting a second national labor-management conference to avoid what he predicted would be the worst inflation period in U. S. history, told the delegates

"The solution of our present ills can be achieved only by free and mutual decisions of workers and management meeting together in good faith to evolve formulas and measures for the common good."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDESEN, M.D.

Hysteria

HYSTERIA is a much misunderstood term.

To most people it means a kind of emotional jag which begins with unbridled weeping and screaming and ends in collapse. Others confuse it with malingering or the pretense of illness when the malingerer knows very well that no illness is present.

Hysteria, on the other hand, is a real disorder of the type called psychogenic, that is one which occurs because of emotional instability. Hysteria takes many forms and may imitate the symptoms caused by almost any organic disease. It may express itself in a loss of function, such as paralysis of this or that muscle, deafness or loss of memory.

In hysteria such symptoms are as real as if they were due to actual damage of the body tissues. The paralyzed patient, for instance really cannot move the affected muscle so long as the hysteria persists, nor does he realize that behind his symptoms is a motive of profit that his symptoms are a result of an effort to gain something, whether it be more attention or relief from some difficult situation.

The modern treatment of hysteria deals with the individual rather than with his symtoms. There is an effort made to give the patient an understanding of his symptoms.

The patient with hysteria usually craves attention, and his symptoms often are based on this desire. These symptoms should be ignored, and any slight improvement encouraged to as great an extent as possible.

Keeping a patient with hysteria in bed often only serves to impress the patient with his illness. The earlier the symptoms are gotten rid of, the more quickly the condition can be overcome since, if the symptoms persist, habits develop which are difficult to break.

Many of the symptoms will disappear with the ordinary persuasion and suggestions.

For those which prove more stubborn, there are special methods of treatment. These consist of hypnosis and injection of a medicine such as barbituares into a vein which produces a state of sleepiness.

In carrying out the hypnosis, the patient is placed on a couch in a comfortable position and relaxes his muscles. The eyes are fatigued by having him gaze at a bright object, while at the same time the hypnotist suggests that his eyes are getting heavy. Finally, under the influence of repeated suggestion, they will close. A gentle stroking of the forehead will deepen the hypnosis.

In a state of hypnosis as well as that brought about by injection of barbiturates, the patient is made suggestible and often responds quickly to suggestions given by the physician carrying out the treatment.

Once the symptoms of hysteria have been eliminated, the patient must be studied and helped to correct his way of reacting to the problems of life. Otherwise, future difficulties will probably bring a recurrence of symptoms.

Such people tend to give in readily in the face of difficulties and yet at the same time, they often attempt things beyond their ability, in order to impress others. The doctor should aim at teaching them to get satisfaction out of doing the things they can do well and to live within the limits of their power.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

A. R.: I have a year-old-son and I have learned that my aunt had epilepsy since childhood. Is this an indication that the disease exists in my ancestry?

Answer. The fact that your aunt had epilepsy does not mean that the disease was present in your ancestry. I hardly believe you need be concerned about this matter.

"How do I look, Mom?"

Healthy young bodies and healthy young minds go hand in hand.

This is emphasized at school in the youngsters' physical and mental hygiene classes. But children get their "basic training" at home.

Many parents have discovered that it's easier to teach their children habits of cleanliness when there is a plentiful supply of hot water always on tap. It makes household chores easier, too.

You'll get more benefit from your convenient, low cost water supply if you provide your family with continuous hot water.

Make This Home Recipe To Take Off Ugly Fat

It's simple. It's amazing how quickly one may lose pounds of bulky, unsightly fat right in your own home. Make this recipe yourself. It's easy—no trouble at all and costs little. It contains nothing harmful. Just go to your druggist and ask for four ounces of liquid Rennel Concentrate. Pour this into a pint bottle and add enough grapefruit juice to fill the bottle. Then take two tablespoonsful twice a day. That's all there is to it.

If the very first bottle doesn't show the simple, easy way to lose bulky fat and help regain slender, more graceful curves; if reducible pounds and inches of excess fat don't just seem to disappear almost like magic from neck, chin, arms, bust, abdomen, hips, calves and ankles, just return the empty bottle for your money back. You don't have to starve yourself, eat sensibly per instructions on bottle. Follow the easy way endorsed by many who have tried this plan and help bring back alluring curves and graceful slenderness. Note how quickly bloat disappears—how much better you feel. More alive, youthful appearing and active.

4 Argentine Amateur Seamen Resail Original Columbus Route

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, Sept. 17—Four Argentine amateur sailors who retraced the first voyage of Christopher Columbus from Palos, Spain, to the island of San Salvador have arrived here after a cruise of about 17,000 nautical miles.

After a rest here they plan to add another 10,000 miles to the log on a voyage from New York to Buenos Aires by way of the Antilles and down the coast of South America.

The skipper, a carefree former diplomat "now turning writer" is Ernesto Uriburu, former press attache of the Argentine embassy in Washington. He says he is writing a book, "in English with an accent."

Uriburu is "captain, owner and cook." His brother Mario, a naval technician, helped build and design the "Gaucho," a double-ended 28-ton ketch with an auxiliary diesel engine. The other crew members are Julio A. Vazquez, navigator, and Miguel A. Britos, a newspaper man and photographer.

The ketch, a trim 50-foot craft, left Buenos Aires July 28, 1946, sailed up to Rio de Janeiro and crossed the Atlantic to Dakar, West Africa in 28 days. Following the ancient routes of the Spanish and Portuguese navigators the Gaucho toured the Canary islands, entered the Mediterranean and detoured to the Suez canal.

Uriburi says his voyage from Palos is the first of its kind. Prof Samuel Morison of Harvard retraced the third voyage of Columbus, from San Lucas de Barrameda to Trinidad and the delta of the Orinoco.

Riding the trade winds, "fishing for salmon and sardine out of a can, and eating bully-beef and mulligan with plenty of onions and garlic," the four Argentines reached San Salvador (named Watling island by the British) in 31 days.

"We made our landfall at about the same time Columbus did, near two o'clock in the morning, and we understood perfectly how the Admiral of the Ocean Sea felt," Uriburu said.

Was he worried during the long days and nights at sea?

Carries Radio

"We are not fools, even if we sound like it," Uriburu said. "The Gaucho carries a radio-telephone which enables us to talk to Buenos Aires directly, and all the necessary modern instruments for navigation.

"We have about 400 charts on board, with a good nautical library. The navigator is very capable and the discipline was perfect. No smoking, no drinking, all arguments settled by reference to an encyclopedia."

The master of the Gaucho is very proud of the flag he flew on the cruise from Palos to San Salvador, a reproduction on the flag Columbus hoisted on his caravel, with the castles of Castile and the lion rampant of the kingdom of Leon. There was a pennant, too, which "is in good hands now. We gave it to the children of the New York institute for the education of the blind."

The problem of food on board was simple, Uriburu said. The Gaucho is trim and modern, but it has no icebox. He stocked canned food, spaghetti which he prepared, a binful of Irish potatoes, some yams, and plenty of onions, garlic and green bananas and tomatoes. In that way he managed to have fresh fruit and vegetables for three weeks out of four.

Crew Eats Garlic

The fourth week they ate garlic.

Before they left Palos, they went to the monastery of La Rabida to attend a mass. At Gomera in the Canary islands, "canoes, boats, smacks, tugboats, snipes, everything that could float was out to see us go. They were fine people. At San Salvador we were fed wonderful roast pig," Uriburu related.

Any dangerous incidents?

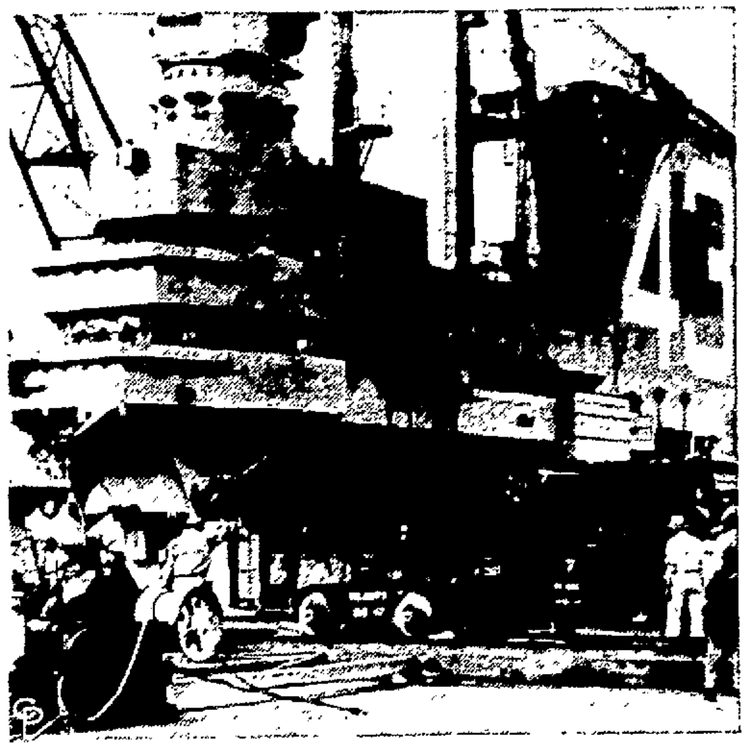
"Why, none at all. Some rain squalls. Otherwise the ship, she just rides along steady as can be for five minutes, takes a couple of rolls, steadies again—wind from the same side, same movement, same breeze, same flying fish popping up on deck in the morning to be eaten. When we came ashore at San Salvador, we walked steady and then rolled on the same side as the ship, see?"

Uriburu admitted being a romanticist. "I don't care. Rather be my own boss than anything else. That ship represents seven years of planning and saving, and all I own."

"But it does not matter. Some people are escapists and won't admit it. I do. As long as the Gaucho can move freely, it makes no difference what the bank balance it.

"All I need is a blue suit and three pairs of shoes."

Ancient man kept time by measuring shadows cast by trees, cliffs and other objects.



GIANT CARRIER NEAR COMPLETION. Incline and sallying tests are made aboard the Coral Sea, which is near completion at Newport News, Va., and will be commissioned Oct 1. The giant carrier is one of the three largest in the world. In the above picture two cars, loaded with several tons of ingots, are winched to starboard and port to show the list of the vessel. It's a pity that Mussolini couldn't have lived to see the misery he brought upon his country. Or is it? Maybe he is where he has a hot front seat from which he can see the show.

No Happy Omen

The Allies signed treaties with four other nations besides Italy—Finland, Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria. All except Italy already are within the Russian zone of influence. That circumstance isn't a happy omen for Italy. It means that the forthcoming fight between Communism and the anti-Red forces is going to be a tough one.

It long has been obvious that Italy was one of the nation's specially marked out for communization, and the big Red party in that country has been doing yeoman's work in preparing the ground for a coup. Recently this preparation has been spurred because of the advent of the Marshall plan for European rehabilitation, which has as one of its objects to help countries like Italy defend themselves against aggressive communism.

With the hope of forcing the issue in Italy before the Marshall plan can become effective, the Communists are adopting drastic measures. Sunday, on the eve of the formal ratification of the Italian peace treaty, Palmiro Togliatti, Russian trained Italian Communist leader made a bitter speech in which he charged America with "working eagerly to prepare a new war." He also criticized President Truman and Pope Pius.

"Death to Truman"

A cry of "death to Truman" was voiced by perhaps a dozen of the throng listening to Togliatti.

While this speech was being delivered the country was being torn by labor troubles which Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democratic party charges were inspired by leftists. Italian harvests were threatened by a strike of 1,000,000 farm laborers. Leaders of 850,000 metal workers began a 48-hour strike yesterday.

And on Sept. 8 Togliatti was quoted in press dispatches from Modena to Rome newspapers as declaring before a partisan rally: "We shall call the Italian people to fight for liberty which is threatened by the government."

Must Withdraw Troops

It is worthy of note that the United States and Britain must withdraw their occupation troops from Italy within 90 days of the signing of the peace treaty, thus leaving the government to look after itself. Moreover Moscow has let it be known that there is a Molotov rehabilitation plan ready for the relief of those who desire it. This is bolstered by the announcement of a bumper Russian grain harvest—the Soviet Union being virtually the only area in all Europe where crops haven't failed or been bad. So the word has gone out that Russia will be able to provide bread for the needy.

France being another nation in which Russia is particularly interested, the French Communists also have been redoubling their efforts to gain control of the country. Russia has let it be known that the proposed Franco-Italian customs union is regarded with disfavor in Moscow, and is holding out the prospect of wheat for France which is short of bread.

Thus the war of the isms in Europe is rushing toward what looks to be a climax. The economic crisis will bring the thing to a head soon if nothing else does.

3 SIX-MAN GAMES BOOKED ON GRIDIRONS

Play will start Friday in the newly-organized Double M six-man football league composed of four Marion county and two Morrow school. All three of the games will be played in the afternoon starting at 3.30.

Claridon will travel to LaRue for the opening game for the west siders. Johnsville, one of the Morrow county teams, will journey to Caledonia to oppose Coach Thurman Wright's experienced crew. The other Morrow county sextet, Chesterville will be hosts to Prospect.

All of the Marion county teams played the abbreviated game last year and LaRue and Claridon have played for several years. Prospect initiated the game only last year. Both Morrow county combines are starting the sport this year for the first time.

Three of the teams in the league played last week. Claridon defeated Prospect, 18-14, in a non-league affair at Prospect under the lights. Caledonia traveled to Huron and triumphed, 14-12, in a thriller. The other three teams were idle.

DODGERS TAKE REDS AS CARDS DROP 3RD STRAIGHT TO GIANTS

Everybody But Dyer and Shotton Concede Bums Will Play Yanks in Series.

By The Associated Press

Now that everybody except Managers Eddie Dyer of St. Louis and Burt Shotton of Brooklyn (the latter with tongue in cheek) has conceded the National league flag to the Dodgers, it is easy to understand why the Brooks will meet the New York Yankees in the World Series.

Everything else considered, the Dodgers are World Series bound because they have been able to hold the defending champion Cardinals to a standstill in their 22-game season's series.

The Brooks have achieved that feat only once in the last 14 years and thereby won a pennant. In 1941, the Dodgers divided 22 games with St. Louis and were rewarded by copping the flag, their first in 21 years.

Cards Ride Roughshod

One of the big reasons why the Cards captured the crown in 1943 and 44 was because they whipped the Brooks 33 times in 44 games during those two years. The last year the Dodgers took a season's series from the Redbirds was in 1932 when they won 14 games from St. Louis and lost eight.

Brooklyn holds the edge on every club in the league with the exception of the Cards.

They wound up their season's work with the Reds yesterday by taking over the third game of the series, 7-3, to sweep the three game set. The win, coupled with the Giants 7-2 win over the Cards, increased Brooklyn's first place margin over St. Louis to eight and a half games. The Dodgers can clinch the pennant with four victories in their remaining 10 games. Four St. Louis defeats also would do the trick.

3rd Straight Loss

The Giants clipped the Redbirds' wings for the third straight time to make their season's record over the Cardinals 13 wins and nine losses.

In the only other National league game, Blix Donnelly outpitched Mel Queen to give the Philadelphia Phils a 2-1 victory over the Pirates in Pittsburgh.

With only Tommy Henrich and Phil Rizzuto of the first stringers in the starting lineup, the New York Yanks whipped the Browns in the opener of a twin bill, 8-3. With most of the regulars including Joe DiMaggio back for the second game, the Yanks bowed 8-2.

The Chicago White Sox, who eliminated the Boston Red Sox from the pennant race Monday, won their second game of the season at Fenway park as they split a doubleheader with Boston. After Dinty Galehouse shut out the White Sox, 5-0, with a six-hitter in the opener, Chicago came back to win the second game, 8-3.

Although the Senators defeated Detroit, 4-1, in a night game at Washington, the Tigers clung to second place a half game ahead of the Red Sox.

A seven run rally in the seventh enabled the Athletics to defeat the Cleveland Indians, 7-3, in the second game of a doubleheader in Philadelphia and gain a split. The Indians won the opener 5-3, as Joe Gordon hit two home runs to give Bob Feller his 19th win.

Marion Fans To Get Look At Irish Eleven Thursday

St Mary meets Lima St Rose tomorrow night.

Making their first appearance at home, the Irish will tackle a heavier St Rose squad whose line averages about 175 pounds, and about 155 in the backfield.

It will be the initial start for Lima, who last year tied St. Mary, 6-6.

Schuler Apparently Out

Dick Schuler, still out of the Irish lineup with an injured knee, will probably not see action against the tricky St Rose gridders. Little Nick Maniaci will start at quarterback for the Irish.

If the 13-0 spanking Lima St Rose gave Elida recently in two eight-minute exhibition quarters is any indication, St. Rose will bounce back this year from their poor 1946 season. The Elida gridders have not been beaten for two years, and won their opener this year.

Though St. Rose has but two regulars in their starting lineup, Goedde at center and Korn at fullback, they have four other lettermen, and a lot of promising material.

Seek Second Victory

The Irish will be looking for their second victory, having stopped Delaware Willis, 13-0, last Friday.

About 1,900 tickets to the game, scheduled to start at 8:00 p. m., have been sold already, Floyd H. Cornely of the Knights of Columbus reports.

Advance sale of tickets is being sponsored by the Knights of Columbus, with the school children supporting Cornely's aim to sell 2,500 tickets by game time.

Cubs Fall To Dayton In 11-9 See-Saw Tilt

Special To The Star

DAYTON, Sept. 17—The Dayton Indians, bouncing back in the seventh inning with the winning run after Dwight Maxhimer of the Cubs had blasted a grand slam homer to tie the score, turned back Marion, 11-9, before 675 chilled fans last night at Hudson field.

Johnny Edington, who went into the game after starter Jitts Lawrence was yanked for a pinch hitter in Marion's four-run seventh, was the losing pitcher. Joe Jackson hurled the route for Dayton, giving 10 hits and fanning five.

Cubs Pull Up

Trailing 5-0, the Cubs pulled within one run of a tie in the fifth on only two hits. A walk to Nelson Burbrink, Bob Shuford's double, a force play on Gene Bobzean's roller, a force play and an error on Jim Forbe's bounder, a walk to Lawrence, Roy Hollingshead's single, and a force play and an error on Johnny Smith's Hopper were the ingredients.

Dayton picked up a run in the fifth, but the Cubs got it back in the sixth when Burbrink, who had singled, went to second on an error on the same play and tallied on Shuford's single to center.

Dayton Gets 3

The Indians ripped Lawrence for three more runs in the sixth, but Marion's four-run seventh knotted everything. With one down, Bill Crago, batting for Lawrence, singled, and went to second as Hollingshead pumped a single to right. The bases were filled when Smith walked. Then Maxhimer, hitless before, boomed a long home run well over the left centerfield wall.

Dayton collected the winning run in its half with one down. Jackson walked and went to second when Edington also passed Bob Micelotta. Marty Sebastian's single tallied Jackson and the Tribe added another for good measure when Micelotta came in on Charley Traeger's force play.

Tag Team Wrestling Thursday

Buck Weaver, the Hoosier football star and Marion favorite will team up with Billy Weidner against the combination of Dutch Schultz and Frankie Clemons in a two hour tag team match Thursday night at the Marion Aromry. Both combinations should work out to give the local fans plenty of action and many of Marion people have been asking for just this kind of a match. There will be two thirty minute matches before the main event, in which Billy Weidner will tangle with Dutch Schultz and Frankie Clemons will try out rough Buck Weaver. It has been some time since a tag team match has been booked here but this one should be about tops. A ten minute prelim between two local boys, Wally Hale and Butch Patterson will start things going at 8:30. Be sure and call Markert & Lewis for your best ringside seats.—Adv.

UNDEFEATED ANGELS TO PLAY 3RD GAME SUNDAY AT DAYTON

Local Semi-Pro Gridders Book Merchants; New Strategy Shaped.

Marion Angels, undefeated and unscored on in two games this season, will attempt to preserve this record against Dayton Merchants at Dayton Sunday afternoon.

The Merchants are new to the Marion schedule, so Coach Gene Fetter is going to concentrate on a variety of offensive and defensive formations so that his squad won't be caught short.

He will probably start about the same lineup against Dayton that was used against Worthington.

Howard Richardson and Max Roseberry are slated for the end posts with Herb Phillips and Jim Gilmore, understudy of Bob Dull, and Vern White may get tackle assignments, Chuck Murray, Vern Griffith and Bill Kate backing them up. At guard will be Martin Lewis and Bob Berry with Getty Oberhoff and Charles Hill slated for mid-line action too. A pair of 200 pounders, King Keller and Willard Benson, will trade it center.

In the backfield any one of a number of players may get the assignments. Ed Simmons will probably work under center again, had Reams starter at right half last game, will probably draw the assignment again this week, Bob Ivey is sure at left half, and Bill Scott is the probable fullback. Howard Hodges, Fred Ruhl, and Leo Belknap are other good bets to see ball carrying duty.

After this game the Angels return home for their first Inter-State Conference till against Mendon Red Jackets Saturday, Sept. 27.

Softball Schedule

DIZZY DEAN SIGNED AS BROWNS PITCHER

By The United Press

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 17—Jerome Herman "Dizzy" Dean, one-time pitching great for the St. Louis Cardinals, today signed a contract to pitch for the St. Louis Browns.

Ed Smith, publicity director for the Browns, said that the right-hander would probably start one or more of the team's remaining home games at the discretion of Manager Herold Ruel.

The Browns return to St. Louis Tuesday to wind up their 1947 season. They play three games next week with Cleveland here Tuesday and Wednesday nights and Thursday afternoon, take a day off Friday, then wind up the campaign with two single day contests against the Chicago White Sox on Saturday and Sunday.

The move, naturally, is expected to stimulate interest among potential cash customers for the Browns' last five games here. Smith did not divulge salary figures.

the food picture, seeking relief from $1 a pound meat, butter at or near that price and eggs heading for $1 a dozen mark.

In Boston, mothers with babes in arms appeared before a congressional subcommittee which opened public hearings on the spiraling cost of living. Consumers' groups and retail grocers also pleaded for relief from high food prices.

Two "chain" campaigns against the high cost of food and other items started in Cincinnati. The Greater Cincinnati Consumers conference began telephoning housewives and asking them to refuse to buy butter, eggs and high cost meat items.

Unsigned postcards, urging "break the price trust, buy less of everything," appeared in Cincinnati mailboxes. Recipients were asked to "copy this card and mail to one to five or more different persons."

BOAT MURDER DEFENDANT CALLED BACK TO STAND

Youth, Accused with Sweetheart of Killing Her Parents, Testifies.

By The Associated Press

SANTA ANA, Calif., Sept. 17—George (Bud) Gollum was called back to the witness stand today to resume giving his answer to the state's charges that he and his sweetheart, Louise Overell, murdered the girl's parents, wealthy Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Overell.

Unequivocally the 18-year-old Louise, sole heir to her parents' $550,000 estate, testified yesterday that she did not kill her parents, did not see them killed and did not know who killed them.

Gollum, in beginning his testimony, said he purchased 50 pounds of dynamite the day be-He said Mr. Overell asked him to In Newport harbor last March 15. He said Mr. Overll asked him to buy the explosives.

"And Mr. Overell insisted that no one know he was buying it," the bespectacled 21-year-old Gollum explained to the jury of six men and six women. He said that was why he signed a fictitious name on the sales slip for the explosives.

"I figured that if Mr. Overell didn't want his name used in the purchase I wasn't going to have my name used either."

Young Driver's License Revoked for One Year

Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo Tuesday afternoon revoked the driving licence of a 17-year-old Marion boy charged with speeding. The revocation is for one year and is the third such penalty to be assessed by Judge Ruzzo in the past two days in efforts to curb the number of cases of youths charged with reckless operation of motor vehicles that have been brought into his court.

Revocation of licenses means that in addition to being unable to drive a motor vehicle for the period specified, offenders will have to apply for a new license and take a driving test. Dates of revocation will be carried on all succeeding licenses held by the driver.

Interpreter for Nurenberg War Trials Is Rotary Club Speaker

JOHN E. DOLIBOIS

John E. Dolibois, one of the official interpreters at the much publicized Nuernberg trials for Nazi criminals, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Rotary club at Hotel Harding Tuesday.

Mr. Dolibois, who was born in Luxembourg, and is a naturalized American citizen, speaks French and German fluently. He served in the intelligence department of the U. S. Army during the war.

Mr. Dolibois is now executive secretary of the Miami university Alumni association at Oxford, O.

He was eventually sent back to Luxembourg where he was one of the five official interrogators in a hotel-prison for high German officials. It was here, he said, that he gained the confidence of Reich Marshal Goering after many long talks.

While in Europe, Mr. Dollbois discovered that the wanton cruelty and destruction was really much worse than it had been described. But despite this all the German prisoners received the daily ration as prescribed by the Geneva convention, he said.

Mr. Dolibois said one of the strangest persons he met in his stay in Europe was Julius Streicher. About state and military matters Streicher was truly illiterate, he declared, but in anything pertaining to the Jewish religion he was a genius.

During the course of his anti-semetic campaign, Streicher had compiled a library of books pertaining to Jewish culture which is no doubt the only one of its kind in the world, the speaker reported. Mr. Dolibois said that it seemed paridoxical that the man who set out to destroy the Jewish race had done more to preserve the remnants of its lost culture than any-one else could hope to do.

In closing, Mr. Dolibois quoted Supreme Court Justice Robert Jackson in stating, "We must never forget the reputation of American justice is at stake."

Guests at the meeting were Merlin Ditmer and Robert Howard, both of Miami university, Oxford, O., George Brown, Maynard Smith, Theodore Michel, Harold Grigsby and Richard Probst, all of Marion, David Frew of Marion, a student at Miami university, James Oran of Cleveland, and A. M. Eliot of Lima.

The Harding High school reporter for the meeting was Clark Dougherty.

Motion Picture Shown At Jr. Chamber Meeting

A motion picture film "It's Our Town" was shown at the meeting of the Junior Chamber of Commerce Tuesday night at the Y. M. C. A.

The film, made and edited by the Lima Jaycees, pictures the comparison between early Lima and the present day conditions and improvements. Otto Austin of Lima, guest of the local club, was in charge of the showing.

Jack Lautenslager presided for the business meeting and gave a report on committee activities for the semi-pro football game on Sept. 13. Approximately 14 members of the Marion group announced plans to attend the all-state meeting to be held Sunday at the Deshler-Wallick hotel in Columbus.

Firemen Called To Revive Strangling Baby

The fire department inhalator squad was called on a strangulation case to revive a two and a half weeks old child Wednesday morning.

The baby, James E. Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Rush of the Kromer-Millisor road five miles south of Marion was strangling, according to the department, and the inhalator was used for about 10 minutes. When they left the baby, who was in the care of a Marion physician was doing nicely.

The call was received at 1:46 p. m. and firemen Jack Ganoe and Robert Alexander operated the inhalator. The run was made in the chief's car.

NATIONAL GUARD MAY DOUBLE STRENGTH

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Sept. 17—Maj. Gen. Ellard W. Walsh, president of the National Guard association, said today that he expected the Guard to double its present strength of 100,000 men by next June.

Walsh, adjutant general of Minnesota, made the prediction in his annual report prepared for delivery before the opening session of the Guard's 69th general conference. The convention closes Saturday.

He said "it appears quite certain" that the guard would complete the organization of 4,500 units by that date, with an aggregate strength in excess of 200,000.

The outgoing president said the guard's reorganization program has made "very substantial progress" toward its goal of 6,373 units and ultimate strength of 682,798 "despite handicaps."

"The National Guard," he said, "has been hampered by a reduction of more than $48,000,000 in the 1948 appropriation. * * * By bewildering policies relating to enlistments, inability to obtain the return of facilities and installations loaned to the federal government in time of World War II, failure on the part of the war assets administration to turn over facilities and installations * * * and the disinclination and difference of the corps of engineers of the army to accomplish leases."

LOVE'S PERILOUS PATH

By ADELE GARRISON

I HESITATED only the fraction of a second at Mary's request, for I guessed what she had been doing. While she had been studying the other lines I had assigned her, she surreptitiously had been going over the three lines in which she had made a mistake two days before, and which had disturbed her so much.

"Go ahead!" I told her, and she promptly recited them correctly.

"Good girl!" I commended enthusiastically, then added a caution.

"But you mustn't stop with that one recital," I told her. "Those three lines will give you more trouble than all the rest of them if you don't clinch them now."

"I suppose you want me to say them over," she said.

"Exactly," I told her. "Repeat them five times. Then write them five times, and after that repeat them once more five times. And, every day, say them and write them at least three times each."

Obeyed Meticulously

"No wonder your pupils passed their regents," she said with a saucy smile. But she obeyed meticulously, finishing the last word only a few seconds before Katharine came into the room.

"Well, you don't look too worn and frazzled at the edges," Katharine remarked. "Now, Madge, if you'll run along, and attend to your own pursuits for awhile, I'll see that this girl gets a proper rest."

I was only too glad of the permission, for I wanted to get hold of Noel as soon as possible and I knew that I had but ten minutes to catch him before he should go to his next class. But I did not dare telephone from our sitting room, for fear Mary should inadvertently overhear me.

"I have to go up to my study to look up something," I said, with carefully assumed carelessness. "Call me up there if you need me."

"I won't need you unless Mary turns balky and I have to build a fire under her," Katharine said laughing, and I hurried out of the room and on up to my little studio apartment, where I had been working on my new play when Mary came back so unexpectedly, and with such near tragedy, from the sanitarium where she had been for a year.

Stopped By a Knock

Then I clenched my fists with the determination that nothing should hinder her return to the position she had left, and started to the telephone only to be stopped by a knock at the door—a knock I knew—and when I opened it, my husband gave me a comradely grin.

"I saw you rushing in here as I turned the corner to go over to the apartment," he said. "Where's the blaze?"

"I haven't time to tell you now," I said. "I have to get hold of Noel before he goes to another class. But if you have time to sit down and wait, I'll bring you up to date as soon as I've finished with Mary's husband."

He gave me a curious and penetrating look which I shrugged off as I started for the telephone.

"You look to me," he said judicially, "as if you were preparing to finish Noel off with a meat chopper, or some equally lethal weapon. But go ahead. Far be it from me to interfere with your murderous pursuits."

I wrinkled my nose at him as I lifted the receiver from the hook and gave my number.

"Wait until you hear about this," I told him. "You'll be balancing a lethal weapon in each hand."

"I have no doubt you're right," he said, "especially if it concerns a male Veritzen. And there aren't any females of the breed except by marriage, thank the Lord. Suppose there was a femme fatale with the Veritzen temperament—"

Subsided in Time

I put up my hand with a hushing gesture, and he subsided just in time, for the next instant Noel was answering my call.

"Yes, this is Noel Veritzen," he said. "What, Aunt Madge!" "Is—is—Mary worse?"

I forgave him much for the poignant anxiety in his voice. Whatever fault he had one virtue blazed valiantly—his love for his wife.

"No, no!" I assured him. "On the contrary, she's very much better today and is counting on your company for dinner again."

"I'll be there," he said. "What has she been doing today? I hope she's been resting and not wearing herself out over those lines she was talking of studying."
